The Closing Session took place at the Noto Royal Hotel. The theme of the session was the Japanese concept of go-en, meaning "linked by heart and fate." Among the many performances was the writing of the character "en" by a calligraphy master.

The closing ceremony was a chance to celebrate the success of the Noto Summit and the grassroots friendships that had been created. As well as more dance and music performances, the descendents of John Manjiro and Captain Whitfield performed the symbolic "globe exchange", and participants were informed about the 2008 Summit in Kentucky.
